A Two Headed Baby .- One of the most curious human marve's is now on exhibition in this city. It is a two headed baby. This infant prodigy was born at Tipton, Ind., on June 24, 1889, and is now a little more than six months old. Her parents, who are both young, are physically perfect, and can offer no explanation of the peculiar malformation of their offspring. The baby is healthy and apparently in excellent condition as regards the action of the vital organs of which she has two complete sets. gans, of which she has two complete sets. Each head seems to be independent of the other in regard to brain action, one head appearing to be full of life, while the other may be in the land of nod. The baby is really asleep and awake at the same time, and it is not at all unusual to see one little face wreathed in smiles while the other is bathed in tears. The parents of the phenomenon at first endeavored to keep its existence a secret, but a Hoosier photographer, who was a frequent visitor to their home, surreptitiously obtained a photograph of the baby, which he reprinted and offered for sale in large quantities. Their secret being revealed the parents concluded to make their fortune by exhibiting their child, whom they never leave, and who is also accompanied by a doctor and a nurse .- Phila.
